

ELIZABETHTOWN/HARDIN COUNTY, KENTUCKY

AN OVERVIEW

Elizabethtown is the seat of government for Hardin County, one of the larger counties in Kentucky with a population of over 107,000. Additionally, the Elizabethtown-Fort Knox Metropolitan Statistical Area has a population of approximately 150,000. Geographically, Elizabethtown is located at 37°42'10"N 85°51'58"W. The city has a total area of 24.4 miles. There are many businesses and a diverse industrial base that call the Hardin County area home. It is also home to the military installation at Fort Knox, which has recently expanded due to transformation activities that include the relocation of the Army's HR Command, the US Cadet Command and the 84th Army Reserve Region Training Center.

Hardin County Business Climate

Elizabethtown/Hardin County is located in the heart of the Eastern United States along Interstate 65. With its business-friendly attitude, low cost of doing business and low taxes, it offers a supportive and progressive climate for industry. Close cooperation between state and local government and the private sector has helped Elizabethtown attract and retain valued industries. This attitude is reflected in the participation of top government officials in economic development activities. The Mayor and County Judge Executive both serve on the Elizabethtown/Hardin County Industrial Foundation Board of Directors, a not-for-profit corporation that recruits new industries to the area. Top local officials also serve on the Board of the Hardin County Chamber of Commerce and work closely with state and federal legislators to promote legislation conducive to maintaining a healthy business climate. The Mayor and County Judge Executive's willingness to serve in these capacities demonstrates their accessibility to the local business community.

ELIZABETHTOWN/HARDIN COUNTY INDUSTRIAL FOUNDATION

The Elizabethtown/Hardin County Industrial Foundation, a not-for-profit economic development organization, works with new and existing business and industry to enhance the overall economic growth and vitality of the Hardin County region through the creation of new jobs and capital investment. The Foundation is committed to providing assistance to you to ensure your success in Kentucky. The Elizabethtown/Hardin County Industrial Foundation has land available in two developed parks located in Elizabethtown. There are currently over 500 acres available with lots ranging from 2 acres to 250+ acres. The Foundation also manages the Glendale Certified Megasite for Hardin County Government. The site contains 1,551 acres and is bordered by CSX Rail and Interstate 65.

TRANSPORTATION

Access to transportation has always been key to doing business in Hardin County. Its central location, excellent highway system, rail and truck service make the region a prime spot for business. In fact, the community has a history of being a crossroads for industry and business.

Highways

Elizabethtown, with its network of highway access, is within a day's drive of nearly two thirds of the nation's population. Connecting to three major highways has helped it earn its nickname of "Hub City."

- Interstate 65, which connects Lake Michigan to the Gulf of Mexico.
- Bluegrass Parkway, which connects Hardin County to the east and ends near Lexington and Interstates 64 and 75.
- Western Kentucky Parkway, which ends at Interstate 24 with highway connections to Memphis and St. Louis.

Air Service

Local air service is provided at Elizabethtown's Addington Field, which can accommodate corporate jets, and has a 6000 X 100 ft. runway. An Instrument Landing System has been installed at the airport. Fuel and repair service is available, as well as hangers and tie-downs. The airport is located in the Hughes Industrial Park.

Louisville International Airport is located just 35 miles north of Elizabethtown. It is one of the largest and most sophisticated airports serving a city of Louisville's size, handling more than 3.4 million passengers annually. It is served by 6 major airline brands. In the year ending May 31, 2012, the airport had 150,293 aircraft operation, an average of 411 per day. Airfares consistently lower than those in a major hub. Louisville International Airport currently has 25 non-stop destinations and also offers a network of international travel flights.

In addition, the Cincinnati/Northern Kentucky International Airport is located just 90 miles north of Louisville. It offers 170 daily departures to 52 non-stop cities including non-stop international service to Paris, Toronto, and Cancun. It is also home to DHL's North American Hub.

UPS Worldport

Many companies have located in or near Louisville because of the UPS presence at the Louisville International Airport. A recent expansion of over $1 Billion increased the hub to 5.2 million square feet, increasing its sorting capacity to 416,000 per hour, making it the heart of the company's international operations.

Rail

Two railroads, CSX and Paducah & Louisville, provide service to Elizabethtown businesses.

STATE AND LOCAL INCENTIVES

In addition, to low taxes and low costs of doing business, Elizabethtown and the State of Kentucky offer a variety of benefits to your company.

Direct Financial Benefit

Kentucky offers a number of progressive incentives for businesses. The new consolidated program is the Kentucky Business Investment (KBI) Program. Eligible companies must be engaged in one of the following activities: 1) manufacturing; 2) agribusiness; 3) be a regional or national headquarters; or 4) be involved with certain non-retail service or technology activities. The minimum requirements for eligible projects are as follows: 1) it must create a minimum of 10 new, full-time jobs for Kentucky residents; 2) the entity must incur at least $100,000 in costs; and 3) a minimum level of wages and benefits must be met. The tax incentives involved with this program are available for up to 15 years for enhanced incentive counties or up to 10 years for all other counties. The incentive may be taken as: 1) up to 100 percent of the tax paid on corporate income or limited liability entity tax arising from the project; 2) a wage assessment incentive of up to 5 percent of the gross wages of each employee in enhanced counties or up to 4 percent (including up to 1 percent required local participation) of the gross wages of each employee in other counties.

In addition, the City of Elizabethtown has the ability to abate property tax for a period of five years.

Employment Services

The Kentucky Department of Employment Services has a Career Center located in Elizabethtown. They can and will, at the direction of the company, recruit, test, assess and screen applicants, referring qualified applicants to the company.

Training

Bluegrass State Skills Corporation (BSSC) provides customized training grants. BSSC, an independent corporation within the Cabinet for Economic Development, provides grants to new, expanding and existing Kentucky businesses for customized skills training. Reimbursements are awarded for entry level through advanced training of Kentucky citizens. The Skills Training Investment Credit Act allows companies to claim state income tax credits for up to 50% of the cost of

The Elizabethtown Community and Technical College and Western Kentucky University

The Elizabethtown Community and Technical College (ECTC) offers a wide range of educational programs that satisfy a variety of training and educational needs. Strong technical programs provide students the opportunity to gain knowledge and skills in preparation for new careers or to enhance current careers. New associate in applied science degree programs, diplomas, and certificate options have opened doors for students in areas as diversified as electrical, industrial maintenance, machine tool, welding, and automotive.

Through Workforce Solutions, ECTC strives to train business and industry employees in the following areas: computer skills, technical training, team and employee development, and leadership and supervisory skills. Training is customized and designed to meet specific needs, delivers training based on those needs, and assists business and industry in assessing the results.

The Elizabethtown/Hardin County Industrial Foundation Training Consortium (EIFTC), formed in 1987, is a partnership dedicated to workforce excellence and includes representatives from business, industry, the Industrial Foundation, and ECTC. The primary purpose of this organization is to develop and implement various training programs for local industry, to upgrade skills of current employees, and to provide continuity of educational development for students who may be considered for employment after graduation. Although initial course offerings were in the maintenance area, the selection has broadened to include computer applications, regulatory activities and management training. Several thousand participants from over 50 businesses, industries, governmental agencies, and the general public have completed EIFTC courses.

The Regional Postsecondary Education Center located on the campus of ECTC opened in April of 2002. The Postsecondary Education Center is a unique partnership between ECTC and Western Kentucky University. The Center houses Workforce Solutions, a bookstore, and assessment center as well as programs in Air Conditioning Technology, Electrical Technology, Electronics Technology, Fluid Power, and Industrial Maintenance Technology. In addition, it includes smart classrooms and ITV classrooms where both ECTC and Western Kentucky University offer classes. WKU offers baccalaureate degree programs on the ECTC campus.

A campus expansion in April 2010, opened a new building on the main campus in E'town that houses all health care programs. Additionally, a campus in Springfield houses electrical, industrial maintenance, machine tool, and fluid power offerings. There are campuses located at nearby Fort Knox and Leitchfield and there are 7 off-site campus locations.

The University of Louisville, located 45 miles to the north, is a state supported institution offering PhD's in 33 areas including engineering, medicine, dentistry, and law. The student enrollment is approximately 22,000. The Speed Scientific School at U of L is a nationally recognized engineering school. The Henry Vogt Center for Computer Aided Engineering and Factory Automation at the Speed School contains state-of-the art equipment for teaching and industry-related design and analysis.
